WEBB MADISON HEADS BANKERS

Elected President Of Clearing House Group At Banquet Here

The annual meeting of the first regional clearing house association of Louisiana, a division of the Louisiana Bankers' association, was held at Cherokee terrace, Monday at 5:30 p.m. There were 125 in attendance and J. M. Breard, vice-president of the Central Savings Bank and Trust company, was toastmaster.

The following officers were elected: Webb Madison, Bastrop, president; John M. Breard, Monroe, vice-president; W. F. Prickett, Winnsboro, secretary-treasurer.

The address of the evening was delivered by Dr. Amos Ford, of Ruston, member of the Tech faculty, who took for his theme: "War As It Affects Business." He said that war never creates but rather destroys. While not producing any incentive to build up or create it does produce an incentive for destruction.

He further said that the war abroad will not under present conditions boost commodity prices in this country to any extent such as cotton, wheat and steel as there is already a surplus of products which will be drawn upon if so required.

The entire program was as follows:

Meeting called to order by the president, Fred Falkenheiner.

Greetings, S. M. Richards, president Louisiana Bankers' association.

Treasurer's report, W. F. Prickett.

Report on Study of Our Schedule, Webb Madison.

They are Dr. Joseph Wirth (upper left), former German chancellor, as finance minister; Dr. Hermann Rauschning (upper right), former Nazi president of the Danzig senate, as chancellor; Captain Lieutenant Gottfried Treviranus (lower left), once a member of the Bruening cabinet, as minister without portfolio; Dr. Rudolf Breitscheid (lower right), former Nazi and expert on foreign affairs, as foreign minister.

Ellison Withdraws From Attorney General's Race

Action Leads To Reports Of Peace With Governor Long

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 24.—(AP)—David M. Ellison, ousted yesterday by state police from his office as attorney general on orders of Governor Earl K. Long, today withdrew his candidacy for attorney general in the January 16 primary election.

George M. Wallace, assistant secretary of the Democratic state central committee, said Ellison had withdrawn his qualification papers.

This announcement followed a meeting between Ellison and Governor Long at the executive offices after which both refused comment.

Ellison's withdrawal immediately led to reports in capitol circles that the former attorney general had made peace with Governor Long during their conversations. Ellison had been qualified as a candidate opposing Francis Burns, candidate for attorney general on Long's ticket.

CAPITOL POLICE GUARD LOOSENS UP SOMEWHAT

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Police guard at Louisiana's turbulent capitol scene loosened somewhat today but squads of national guardsmen lolled nearby waiting for any emergency call.

Only two uniformed state police troopers stood guard at the office of Governor Earl K. Long this morning. Two also remained at the 22nd story offices of Attorney General Lessley P. Gardiner.

Nearly a score state police guarded the capitol during the night after they ousted Attorney General David M. Ellison from office on orders of Gov-

SEIZURE MAY SPUR DEBATE ON NEUTRALITY

Democratic Leaders Once More Attempt To Curb Speeches

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The senate agreed unanimously today to curtail debate in an effort to reach a final vote on the administration's neutrality legislation this week.

The agreement, proposed by Democratic Leader Barkley, would limit each senator's general discussion of the legislation, providing for repeal of the arms embargo, to 45 minutes. In addition, each senator would be permitted to speak for a total of 45 minutes on each amendment.

The agreement was reached after Senator Clark, Democrat, Missouri, won a promise from Barkley not to call the senate into daily sessions earlier than 11 a.m., eastern standard time. There was also an understanding that night sessions would not be held.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Discussion over German seizure of the American freighter City of Flint threatened today to prolong the senate neutrality debate, although Democratic leaders once more tried to curb the speechmaking.

Some advocates of the administration neutrality program were quick to argue that the incident proved the wisdom of a "cash and carry" system to prevent American ships fom taking cargoes to belligerents.

Senator Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, a supporter of the administration bill, told reporters:

"Under the pending embargo repeal bill there would be no such incident as the City of Flint seizure, since American shipping would not be permitted to enter the danger zone."

Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, another backer of the bill, expressed his belief that not only seizure but sinking of American ships may be expected unless they are barred from the war zone.

"Of course, Hitler will sink American ships," he asserted, "whether they have munitions and arms aboard or ordinary articles of commerce. The kaiser did it between 1914 and 1917."

Democratic Leader Barkley made it plain that unless an agreement to limit debate was forthcoming, he would force the senate to hold night sessions.

Senator Johnson, Republican, California, blocked the plan late yesterday, advising Barkley that foes of the embargo repeal bill wanted a chance to talk over the situation. Barkley had suggested that future speeches be limited to 45 minutes on the bill and 45 minutes on each amendment.

While administration lieutenants were spending most of yesterday maneuvering for a limit on debate, Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, criticized the administration bill and Majority Whip Minton, Democrat, Indiana, upheld it.

Minton contended that Nye had sought to lift the arms embargo during the Spanish civil war.

Senator Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico, interrupted to ask whether

Allies Pursue Policy Of Starving Out Herr Hitler

By DeWitt MacKenzie

The Anglo-French allies have made it abundantly clear that their land strategy from now on in Europe's fantastic war is to sit tight and pay out plenty of rope to Herr Hitler in the belief he will hang himself in the long run.

Being convinced that the only sort of conflict the Nazi leader originally was equipped for was a blitzkrieg (lightning war), which became a pet phrase of his, the allies have reached the comfortable conclusion that he already has lost the opportunity of waging such a war and is beginning to feel the lack of sinews for a protracted session.

The allied policy of watchful waiting on the western front, however, doesn't mean that the war has died at birth, as a lot of folk mistakenly believe. It's a crazy war but it's still alive.

The Anglo-French (mainly English) naval blockade represents the fiercest offensive they are capable of waging against Germany at this time.

It isn't spectacular like a land operation. But it's there just the same—a noose which is calculated to strangle the Reich unless Hitler can break it.

The fuehrer is devoting his chief energies to torpedoing his way through this hunger-ring, and at the same time is trying to sink enough British merchant shipping to squeeze an England which is dependent on the outside world for three-quarters of her own food supplies.

If anybody thinks submarine warfare isn't real war, let him experience it. I went through long weeks of it during the World war when the German unrestricted U-boat campaign was at its height—had 13 ships sunk all about me in the Mediterranean in one short stretch—and that type of offensive is plenty nasty.

As regards the western front, military experts on both sides agree that the German west wall and the French Maginot line are so nearly impregnable that an attempt to smash either will pile up casualties that would have staggered even Napoleon, profligate as he was with human lives. Hence the reluctance to start a great offensive there.

The whole allied strategy at this moment is directed at constant tightening of the blockade, coupled with

The campaign will continue through November 4.

Mr. Holland spoke at a pep meeting Monday night in the ballroom of Hotel Virginia of all workers in the campaign with the exception of the big gifts division and the women's division. He concluded his address by reminding the audience that the attainment of the chest's goal of $29,500 would be a monument to their efforts in behalf of humanity.

There were approximately 200 Chest workers at the gathering, which was also addressed by C. Alston Prophit, general campaign chairman, Bob Burns, general vice-chairman in charge of details, and Harry Frazer,

RESIGNATION OF STEWART DEMANDED

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 24.—(AP)—The Louisiana tax commission today demanded the immediate resignation of James R. Stewart, chief clerk of the commission's New Orleans office charged with bribery in connection with an alleged tax assessment reduction racket.

Stewart is one of four persons charged with bribery as a result of testimony brought out at an open court hearing into charges District Attorney Charles A. Byrne had impeded the investigations of the Orleans parish grand jury.

W. F. Calhoun, acting chairman of the tax commission, said he had sent Stewart the following telegram this morning:

"Please forward your resignation to me at once."

It was understood that orders for Stewart's discharge had come from Governor Earl K. Long. The chief executive has had Spencer Phillips, a commission member, in New Orleans investigating affairs of the New Orleans office.

BILLION IN NEW HOUSEBUILDING SEEN FOR YEAR

Real Estate Official Looks For 300,000 New Family Units

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24.—(AP)—A billion dollars worth of new housing construction this year was predicted today by E. L. Ostendorf of Cleveland, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

In an address prepared for delivery at the opening session of the association's 32nd annual convention, he said reports from member boards over the country indicate 300,000 new family units will be erected during 1939.

"This is the spear-point of advance," he added. "Other types of real estate activity are good."

The activity, he asserted, "is no war boom."

"We would have had this improvement at this time if there had been no war," he declared. "Indeed, so sound is the foundation for present realty recovery that not even a European war can stop it."

Ostendorf urged local and federal tax relief for real estate and changes in federal housing policies to assist buyers of old houses and confine government dwelling construction to actual slum clearance.

He asked cooperation of real estate boards with the construction industry and governmental agencies to eliminate what he termed "uneconomic and in some cases collusive practices in the building industry."

"We do not object to fair profits in the supply of materials or to giving the building workman a fair wage," he declared. "But we do object to regulations established by private bodies which dictate to the home builder exactly what he may and may not do. The public must be convinced of the fairness and integrity of the construction industry if the new home buyers, who are the spearheads of an active real estate market, are to keep coming along."

Body Of Writer To Be Cremated Following Private Funeral

PASADENA, Calif., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Relatives and close friends of Zane Grey, novelist of the old west, will gather in a mortuary chapel here tomorrow afternoon to bid him a last farewell.

At the close of the private funeral services, his body will be cremated.

The 64-year-old writer who thrilled two generations of readers with 82 novels and true adventure stories died yesterday at his home in nearby Altadena. Because no physician was in attendance, a post mortem examination was ordered.

He sold 13,180,472 copies of the novels and true tales which he wrote beginning in 1904 with "Betty Zane." For eight years before then, following his graduation from the University of

JACKSON EXPECTS FASTER GROWTH

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Jackson, already laying claim to title as "the fastest growing city in the south" with its 600 new homes per year, will take a leap forward in industrial growth early next year when General Electric corporation opens a new $750,000 plant here.

For Jacksonians the plant's opening will prompt a gala celebration, for the citizens have learned that such industries must be obtained if they are to gain their capital city a title also as "crossroad of the south."

And having learned that "nothing succeeds like success," the slogan-loving local burghers are smiling with satisfaction these days they not only contemplate the addition of approximately $400,000 to the city's annual payroll but the likely prospect of yet other manufacturers following closely on the newcomer's heels.

General Electric is coming here for "diversified lamp manufacture" according to word from Schenectady, N. Y., headquarters. Lamps will need boxes for transportation requirements, the Jackson citizen reasons, so maybe there'll be a box plant here soon.

And maybe such a box factory will need an adjunct of some sort, and a real building cycle get started.

CITY OF FLINT SEIZED, TAKEN TO SOVIET PORT

Russia Promises Full Information Will Be Furnished America

VOYAGE HELD LEGAL

Stephen Early Uncertain Whether Germany Acted Properly

(By Associated Press)

Capture of the United States steamship City of Flint by a German sea raider and her arrival at a Soviet port under command of a German prize crew has brought the first serious involvement of American shipping in the European war.

United States embassies in Berlin and Moscow pressed inquiries today concerning details of the ship's capture and the fate of her 42 crewmen.

Norwegian officials said the German cruiser Emden seized the 4,963-ton City of Flint as a carrier of war contraband, put a prize crew aboard and sailed her Saturday from Tromso, Norway, to Kola bay on the north Russian coast.

The City of Flint, which helped save survivors from the Athenia, had been carrying tractors, grain and other cargo to England from the United States.

When the German raider stopped her the City of Flint had aboard 38 survivors from the British freighter Stonegate, which had been sunk in mid-Atlantic a few days before.

Persons who talked with the Stonegate survivors, who were landed at Tromso and started home, quoted them as saying their ship was sunk by the German "pocket battleship" Deutschland.

Norwegians said the American crew of 42 still was aboard the City of Flint when she sailed for Kola bay.

Russia interned the German prize crew which brought the City of Flint into port under the Nazi flag.

British newspapers, like those of the United States, gave first prominence to dispatches about the American ship's capture.

Another development in the war at sea was the British claim that another German submarine, engaged in fighting a merchant vessel, had been sunk by British warships. This was added to the two submarines which the air ministry yesterday said were believed to have been the victims of successful plane attacks.

While the western front remained quiet, Soviet Russia and Finland halted negotiations to permit a Finnish delegation to return from Moscow to Helsinki.

A Finnish government spokesman said the delegation would bring new written proposals from the Kremlin and added that the temporary suspension of talks was "nothing alarming."

Though the nature of the proposals was secret, foreign observers felt sure Finland would balk at surrendering the Aaland islands, between the Swedish and Finnish coasts, or quartering Soviet troops on her own soil, as Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia have agreed.

Trade concessions and cession of certain small islands were expected by some to be the limit Finland would go peacefully.

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, in a special dispatch from Shanghai, meanwhile accused the United States of trying to block any improvement of relations between Japan and the Soviet union.

The dispatch accused Washington of putting pressure on the Japanese government because of Japan's dependence on imports from the United States.

The official German news agency, apparently referring to speculation

ZANE GREY'S OLD LETTER UNOPENED

Grey, who died yesterday at Altadena, Calif., penned the letter with a purpose.

It was Davis, famed as a confidante of writers as a dramatist, former editor of Munsey's magazine, and presently "roving" writer for the New York Sun, who gave Grey his first professional encouragement and lifted him from the obscurity of an Ohio dental office to prominence in American letters.

In gratitude, Grey wrote Bob Davis a letter. An accompanying note asked Davis to open the letter only when he was quite ill or feeling blue, and added that Grey wanted to do this as a token of thankfulness at Davis' inspiration.

The years have tumbled past.

Today, Davis' secretary wondered if jolly old Bob Davis might not feel blue enough when he returns from his present travels to open Zane's old letter.

The City of Flint, a 4,963-ton vessel owned by the United States maritime commission, was [illegible] German prize crew of 17 [illegible] the Nazi flag [illegible] of Tromso, Norway, last Friday night.

Members of a three-man commission [illegible] said that several American ships now are being detained for search by the British.

"This has been going on ever since the start of the war and is perfectly legal," a spokesman said.

Recently, it was said, the British held up for search more than 100 neutral vessels. These vessels were released after being searched, but in some instances the British removed cargo falling within their contraband lists. Cargoes have been removed from at least two American vessels and the ships allowed to continue on their way.

The American government has not recognized the contraband lists of any of the nations now at war and has taken the position that American flag ships may carry anything except arms, ammunition and implements of war forbidden by the present neutrality law.

RUSSIA PROMISES TO GIVE INFORMATION

MOSCOW, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Soviet Russia today told the United States government that full information would be furnished as soon as available concerning the American steamship City of Flint which was captured by a German sea raider and sent to a Soviet Arctic port.

United States Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt, in an interview with Vladimir Potemkin, vice-commissar for foreign affairs, asked for details of the ship's capture and the fate of her 42 crew members.

His interview was described as cordial and he was promised information as soon as obtainable from Murmansk where a German prize crew took the vessel as a war captive.

GARDINER STUDYING JURY LEGAL PHASES

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Attorney-General Lessley P. Gardiner said today he was studying legal phases involved in the New Orleans grand jury situation to determine whether he should exercise supersession over the office of District Attorney Charles A. Byrne, under impeachment fire.

David M. Ellison, [illegible] ejected from office as attorney-general by state police on orders of Governor Earl K. Long, conferred with the chief executive at the capitol this morning.

Ellison had superseded Byrne during the open hearing into charges that the district attorney had impeded the grand jury's investigations.

Ellison's first assistant, James O'Connor, also was removed and he excused himself from superseding Byrne, thereby leaving Byrne once more in charge of his office.

"For the time being, at least, Byrne is in charge of his office," Gardiner said. "I'm looking into the legal phases of the situation at New Orleans but it may be that I will supersede."

The open hearing at New Orleans on the Byrne charges has brought out testimony regarding an alleged tax assessment reduction racket. As a result, four persons are charged with accepting bribes, including James Stewart, chief clerk of the New Orleans office of the Louisiana tax commission.

It was reported here that Stewart would soon be discharged by the commission, possibly today. Spencer Phillips, one of the commission's three

SANCHEZ STATES HE WELCOMES OPPORTUNITY

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 24.—(AP)—District Attorney Dewey J. Sanchez said he would welcome the opportunity to answer an impeachment petition filed against him yesterday by 25 citizens and taxpayers.

District Judges Charles A. Holcombe and Robert Ellis, Jr., appointed B. B. Taylor as attorney to submit and prosecute the impeachment charges. Taylor was selected from a list of attorneys submitted by the petitioners.

The proceedings charging "incompetence, favoritism and gross misconduct" were brought under the same provision of the senate constitution under which impeachment action was taken recently in New Orleans against District Attorney Charles A. Byrne.

Sanchez in his statement, said the citizen petition's effect might be to "retard and embarrass" the progress of trials of cases growing out of grand jury indictments here. The first trial is scheduled November 6.

LOCAL EXHIBITS TAKE 2 HONORS

Demonstration And Form Booths Take Second And Third Prizes

Two high honors were taken by Ouachita parish exhibits at the Louisiana State fair in Shreveport. Second prize of $45 in the blue ribbon division was awarded the home demonstration booth arranged by Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, parish home agent, and third prize of $40 in the blue ribbon farm division was awarded the booth prepared by D. L. Bornman, Jr., parish agricultural agent.

St. James parish won first place in the home demonstration exhibits and Avoyelles and Rapides, first and second, respectively, in the farm exhibits.

Featuring the possibilities of poultry, Mrs. McQuiller's exhibit concerned the flock of single-combed Rhode Island Red chickens belonging to Mrs. Leon White of Bosco. Wise spending of money made from poultry was indicated by the past records, present developments and future possibilities of Mrs. White's flock. Three tall electric candles represented the past, present and future of the poultry business, the tallest being for the future.

"You Can't Eat Cotton" was the theme of Mr. Bornman's agricultural booth, showing the value of a truck crop. The educational feature used was taken from the winning Okaloosa booth at the Ouachita Valley fair. Products displayed, taken from various exhibits at the local fair, were attractively arranged by the agent in his prize-winning booth.

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

HIGH COURT REFUSES DOCTOR CASE REVIEW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The supreme court's refusal to review a decision upholding the American Medical association appeared today to foreshadow further litigation in the justice department charges that the association violated the anti-trust laws.

The department said in a statement last night:

"The court only adhered to precedent in refusing to take jurisdiction under such circumstances, except where cases involving similar questions are already pending before the court or where some outstanding constitutional issue is presented.

"The action of the court has no bearing whatsoever on the merits of the case."

The case started when the department obtained indictments here charging that the association, two affiliated organizations and a group of doctors conspired to restrain trade by boycotting the Group Health association, Inc.

The latter is a cooperative formed to provide its members with medical care. The government contended that the A. M. A. doctors conspired to prevent its obtaining qualified physicians.

The federal district court here ruled that the practice of medicine was a profession, not a trade, and that the anti-trust law was not involved. The justice department sought an immediate review by the supreme court, instead of taking the case to the court of appeals. The A. M. A. agreed to this procedure.

In refusing a review yesterday, the supreme court followed its custom and gave no reason.

The issue will be taken now to the court of appeals.

BELIEVE ROOSEVELT WILL BE NOMINATED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The best political prognosticators between Junction City, Kan., and the eastern edge of Queens county, New York, would not be surprised if the tickets for the 1940 presidential campaign read like this:

Democrats—Franklin D. Roosevelt and John Nance Garner.

Republicans—Arthur H. Vandenberg and Thomas E. Dewey.

They hedge their predictions with all sorts of qualifications. It is still seven months until the nominations will be made, long enough for the political picture to up-end itself several times.

The president and Mrs. Roosevelt have made many plans that they would like to carry out after they leave the White House. One is for a project in the Hudson river valley to which New York City residents might go to live and get a breath of country air. Both have indicated a desire to return to private life. He has told more than one person that he did not intend to run for a third term.

But those statements, private as they were, were made several months ago. Since then a war has started, creating a situation which has demanded all of Mr. Roosevelt's energies.

And, many say, it has increased the prospects for a Democratic victory in 1940. Certainly, if polls are any indication, it has reversed the early summer trend away from the Democrats.

Costs Too Much

Just as it is unprofitable for railroad companies to operate certain branch lines, so some states have found they can save money by keeping certain lands out of the hands of settlers.

Sparsely populated unproductive sections had better belong to the state and be used for game preserves and forestry purposes.

When such lands fall into the possession of the state or the county for nonpayment of taxes or any other reason, they should be held off the market. And scattering families living, or, rather, existing, in such sections, should be encouraged and helped to move to more productive places.

Thus are these people benefited and the commonwealth relieved of the cost of maintaining roads and school privileges where the population is too sparse to warrant such expense.

This is just one of the ways in which sound business principles can be applied to the business of the public.

For The Record

Sir Nevile Henderson's final report as British ambassador to Germany should contribute largely to the world's understanding of affairs abroad immediately preceding the commencement of the war.

Released by Britain, for public consumption, Sir Nevile's analysis of the Hitlerian philosophy and the ambassador's accounts of diplomatic proceedings would appear to be as nearly dispassionate as any contemporary writing from an enemy state could be. The former emissary tries to present a clear-cut picture of diplomatic interchanges and an honest personal impression of Adolf Hitler.

The document will become an important addition to the archives of the Second World war. It will give future historians a better opportunity to dissect impartially the elements that led to the 1939 conflict.

EVOLUTION OF THE WORD FOR WAR

[illegible]

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

YOUNG LOVERS

[illegible] all else to save them suffering?

There is little we can do to save the suffering of young lovers. After we have reared and trained and educated children to the time of their maturity we have to stand back and let them go the rest of the way themselves. We can advise, if we are asked. We interfere only in situations that threaten tragedy. We can know little of what goes on in the minds of young people. We can only guess on the basis of our personal experiences, and we may guess wrong.

The most we can do is to keep the way of communication between us and the children clear. Listen more than we talk. When we are asked for our opinions, give them without too much positiveness. Offer them but never force them. We can say that most folk think that long engagements between very young people do not work out well, but that depends upon the sort of young people who are concerned. We can show sympathy and appreciation, and we can be hopeful for the best. We cannot do much else.

We should not use the word, indeed we should not feel the word "forbid" in this connection. Love cannot be forbidden. For the most part it comes and goes unbidden. It is a spiritual matter not too closely allied to the flesh, if it is real. If it is not the real thing you won't have to forbid it. It will vanish like the rising mist. If it is the real thing you won't want to forbid it. It will make its own way, find its own place, and create beauty all about it. It is a spiritual force that escapes material force, always.

But boys and girls of twenty cannot know love like that? I am not so certain. It has happened. It will happen again. One never can tell about it, for love is a mysterious and awful power, beyond all understanding.

In all such circumstances there is one safe, sure thing to do—give the young people plenty of time. Always try to give them time enough to let the experience try itself out upon them. Hurry is never good. They always feel the present moment to be the only one, but by careful management we usually can make time the judge, the arbitrator, the friends of young love.

The hardest idea in the situation is the one the parents have to accept the very first thing. The child they cared for in infancy and childhood and youth is gone and in its place stands a young man, a young woman, in either case, a young person with a life to live, a career to launch out upon, a destiny to fulfil. The child is gone. Friendship with this young stranger is offered us, and, if we are wise, we take it. That is about all that he have left, and it is enough if we know how to use it.

It's easy to cure bad habits in your youngsters, if you go at it right. Be guided by Angelo Patri's helpful booklet, "Annoying Habits." Send for it, enclosing ten cents in coin. Address Angelo Patri, care the Monroe News-Star, Postoffice Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

Chief criticism has arisen on three fronts: in the textile wage adjustments, in the question of whether upper bracket wage and salary classes should be exempt, and finally in the definition of agricultural brackets which are exempt.

The textile war probably was hottest. Southern mill operators went straight to the president with a protest against Andrews' failure to work out a wage differential that would preserve their advantage due to low-cost labor. The president expressed some preference for the principle of wage differentials but the south failed to get it from the textile committee, on which they were outvoted. A blanket 32 1-2 cent an hour minimum rate on cotton textile workers, effective October 24, reaches into the south just as it reaches New England. New England already is paying such wages in most sections, so the heaviest effect was felt in the south.

Fleming Contrasts

Andrews drew especial fire from some labor groups when he submitted recommendations for amendments to the wage-hour law to exempt from the hour limitations all employes drawing $250 or more a month. He had not volunteered the amendments, but made them only at the request of the house labor committee, which wanted to know his views. In turn, he angered one group of house members by opposing their effort to exempt all labor getting $150 or above. Labor groups said this would rob them of merited overtime pay.

Andrews, a slender, slightly stooping figure, is not the fiery type of executive most popular these last half-dozen years. He moved into the $10,000-a-year job from the $12,000-a-year post at the head of the New York state labor administration.

Colonel Fleming, now in the office of engineers on the upper Mississippi, is pictured in contrast as a bundle of energy, a joy to F. D. R.

In [illegible] after meals in people [illegible] careful examination [illegible] the true cause.

To the doctor a pain in the heart suggests a careful study of the patient to determine if he has angina pectoris, coronary thrombosis or some other disturbance of the heart. The pain may have no relationship to the heart or may be serious.

The pain of angina pectoris is relieved by rest for two to ten minutes. It is not associated with any change in the pulse, with any sign of shock, or with any severe drop in the blood pressure.

People who suffer with coronary thrombosis will not get an adequate blood supply because in that disease the blood vessels which carry blood to the heart are blocked.

When the blood vessels that lead to the heart are suddenly blocked, the pain comes on immediately, even though the patient has been at rest, and may last for many hours.

If one of the blood vessels to the heart is blocked there will be a weakening in the pulse. The patient will have all of the signs of a severe shock, including sweating, sometimes vomiting and a drop in the blood pressure.

Many doctors hesitate to make a diagnosis of a pain in the heart without having a careful record of the blood pressure.

FIREMEN SUMMONED TO FURNITURE WAREHOUSE

A fire in the warehouse of the Dixie Bedding and Furniture company, Washington and Eighth streets, was extinguished early last night by the fire department. Three companies were summoned to the scene, but quickly extinguished the flames before much damage was done.

Cause of the blaze was not determined, and the damage said to have been slight.

A grass fire at 2911 DeSiard street was also extinguished by firemen yesterday.

Jimmie Fidler In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 24—There's a dahlia fancier in our block who reminds me of Hollywood's producers. Each spring this rabid gardener runs from nursery to nursery like a flea on a hot skillet, paying fabulous prices for newly developed dahlias. And each fall, he admits that his tremendous investment has been disappointing—the flowers produced by his $25 and $50 tubers are no better than those grown in his neighbors' gardens from time-honored bulbs costing one-hundredth as much.

Studios, similarly, squander their money and effort on new personalities, which in itself might be laudable if they didn't at the same time overlook well-established favorites. For instance, consider the case of John Payne, hailed only two years ago as Hollywood's most promising young discovery. For one short season, Warner Brothers gave him a terrific build-up [illegible]

All Quiet on Night Club Front

Strict neutrality has been declared in the nocturnal war zone. After an outbreak of hostilities again at the Stork Club, its harried host has come out for peace. The Stork has been the scene of many skirmishes, the last one being a casual tilt between Producer George White and a notable of the Jimmy Walker era, Sidney Solomon.

So the next morning Proprietor Billingsley issued a decree. None, he said, who ever have exchanged blows at any cafe in the city, would be admited to his premises again.

This ultimatum gave instant ammunition to the humorists. That, they declared, meant banishment for almost the entire Stork clientele, since there are few who have remained pacifist in their night-time rounds. As a matter of fact, one wag suggested, Billingsley was giving his club the Wild West motif: Bar Everybody!

DAN OWENS TO RUN FOR JURY

Ward 9 Incumbent Will Ask Return To Present Post

Dan Owens announced Monday that he will make the race for re-election to the Ouachita parish police jury from Ward nine.

He was elected in 1936, and also served a term several yaers ago, and hence is well acquainted with the duties of a police juror and is regarded as well qualified to serve in his ward. During his past term he served on two of the most important committees, roads and finance.

Being himself a farmer, Mr. Owens is specially interested in securing improved farm-to-market roads for his ward and for the parish as a whole. During his term of office he has been largely instrumental in having much important work of that kind performed for his ward.

Mr. Owens has been ever regarded as a conscientious public official, willing and ready at all times to serve his constituents to the best of his ability and it is on that basis that he is asking the voters to return him to office.

2 WOMEN HURT IN CAR CRASH

Ten Other Persons Escape As Cars Collide On South Second St.

Two women were slightly injured and ten other persons escaped injury in an automobile accident early last night at the intersection of Ouachita avenue and South Second street.

Mrs. Annie Hunt, 2107 South Grand street, and her mother, Mrs. I. E. Burke, [illegible] Hays street, suffered minor cuts and bruises when an automobile in which they were riding collided with a machine occupied by six Winnsboro negroes.

In the machine with Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Burke were Mrs. J. K. Dalby, driver of the car, who lives at 1605 Jackson street; Mrs. Dalby's two children, [illegible], 20 months old, and Nancy Betty, three years old, and Mrs. Hunt's small son, James Ellis Hunt. Mrs. Dalby and the three children escaped injury.

Mrs. Hunt suffered minor cuts and bruises and Mrs. Burke received a gash on her forehead. Both were treated at St. Francis sanitarium and allowed to return to their homes.

The machine in which the negroes were riding was reported driven by A. D. G[illegible], 22, of Winnsboro, who was arrested by Police Captain J. D. Bush and Officer E. N. LeVasseur on a charge of reckless driving and released on $25 cash bond. None of the negroes was hurt.

According to reports Mrs. Dalby was driving south on South Second street, a right-of-way thoroughfare, and the negro was moving westward on Ouachita avenue.

GROCERY BILL PAID AFTER FORTY YEARS

HOQUIAM, Wash., Oct. 24.—(AP)—It took 40 years, but the Edward Smiths finally got that $25 grocery debt paid to E. L. Aldrich.

The Smiths left Alexandria, Mo., in 1899 owing Aldrich's store. They promised to pay when able. Two years later they were ready but couldn't find Aldrich, who had moved.

Not until a week ago did they locate him, in Keokuk, Ia. He sent them a receipt, "paid in full" and said they had been more worried over the debt than he.

JAIL PLANTER AFTER SLAYING

Coroner's Jury Fixes No Blame In Death Of W. G. Carlisle

WINNSBORO, La., Oct. 24.—(Special)—A coroner's jury, investigating the slaying Sunday of W. G. Carlisle, a prominent ginner and plantation owner of Franklin parish, by his former partner, C. D. Kendrick, returned a verdict Monday of "death at the hands of Cary Kendrick." The body fixed no blame for the killing.

Sheriff Ed T. Randall said Monday night that no charges had been filed against Kendrick, but that he was being held in the Franklin parish jail here until a grand jury investigation into the slaying. The Franklin parish grand jury goes into session next Monday.

Carlisle was slain at a plantation owned by the two men 16 miles south of here. Kendrick was said to have shot Carlisle twice in the side and once through the back when Carlisle allegedly threatened him with a knife.

A disagreement over the disposal of cattle which both were said to have owned resulted in the slaying, it was reported.

The men had been business partners for four or five years, Sheriff Randall said, but he stated it was his understanding that they had dissolved their partnership recently.

Sunday morning, Sheriff Randall said, Carlisle left Winnsboro for the plantation. Later Kendrick went to the plantation in a taxicab.

Carlisle was planning to ship some cattle, Sheriff Randall said he had been told, and Kendrick protested. In an argument about the shipment of the cattle, Carlisle allegedly threatened Kendrick with a knife, and Kendrick pulled a gun and began shooting, killing Carlisle instantly.

Sheriff Randall said a knife was on the ground beside Carlisle's body when he arrived at the scene. Kendrick surrendered to Sheriff Randall soon after the shooting which occurred about 8 a. m. Sunday.

There were five witnesses to the shooting, Sheriff Randall said. One of the witnesses was Andrew Vickers, plantation foreman; two brothers by the name of Kenny, a taxi driver and a woman who was also in the taxi. The witnesses were said to have stated Kendrick acted in self defense.

Funeral services for Carlisle were held here Monday. He is survived by his wife and several brothers and sisters in Texas.

Hands So Afflicted Could Hardly Move

Entire Body Ached and Pained So She Was In Constant Misery Until Gly-Cas Came With Blessed Relief.

MRS. E. M. LINDNER

with a continuous mounting of poisonous impurities which failed to be properly removed. This worked havoc with my general health and soon I was aching in every muscle and joint over my entire body it seemed. My hands were especially afflicted until I did not have full use of them they pained so severely. Of course it was hard for me to do my work feeling as I did but in spite of all I tried I could find no relief. But a friend knowing of Gly-Cas and of my condition persuaded me to give it a trial and today I am feeling fine."

"Gly-Cas did not hesitate in getting to work on my stubborn case," continued Mrs. Lindner. "In a short time I was getting regular elimination with all those clogged impurities being removed quite naturally without any griping or nauseating. With relief from those accumulated poisons the aches and pains began slowly vanishing until at this present time I have not a single pain. I have so much more strength and energy and really enjoy doing my work since the relief from my former suffering . . . thanks to the efficient action of Gly-Cas."

After A Man's Heart

by JEAN RANDALL

[illegible]STERDAY Buff and George are suspicious of Iris, but can't figure what her game is. The land she bought back is worthless, but they think it will soon leave her possession.

Chapter 21

Scientific Study

"I'LL BACK you to do whatever needs to be done." George rose and rested a friendly hand on her shoulder for an instant. "Of course I know you were joking, Buff, when you used to talk about marrying Tim; but golly, how swell it would be if it really happened! I couldn't wish anything better for old Tim—and he's one of the best, though I admit he's acting like seven kinds of a fool just now—than to pick himself a wife like you."

She looked steadily ahead of her. "I wasn't fooling, George. I'm not now. I'm going to marry Tim."

"He know it?" demanded the startled Mr. Weekes.

"No." Her mouth drooped a little sadly. "That is, I've told him often enough but he refuses my offer."

"He—[illegible], the silly [illegible] I'll make [illegible] marry [illegible] if I [illegible] to bash [illegible] head in! I[illegible]"

"Calm yourself, George dear. You sound like the father of the wronged maiden in a dialect poem—'In Texas, down on the Rio Grande'—[illegible] at clearly [illegible]"

[illegible]

Bag Of Tricks

THERE was nothing spiteful in this analysis. Buff was honestly trying to understand a nature distinctly foreign to her. Her life with her parents had given her a large tolerance of humanity's foibles. Somehow the discovery that most of Iris's "affairs" were impersonal, merely the artist's display of talent before an audience of one and that invariably masculine, served to soften her fault toward Tim in the younger girl's eyes.

She discovered that Iris had a bag of tricks, as professionally necessary as that of a conjurer. The drooping of long lashes against a petal white cheek, the sudden wide and radiant smile which so transformed her, the appealing hand on a man's arm, the caressing little upward inflection in the lovely voice—Iris used them, one after another, impartially. Buff came to know them all, to watch for them. What mystified her was that Iris's victims remained unaware of her technique no matter how often and automatically it was used.

Lance Carroll's daughter, gifted with his own ability to burlesque anything and anybody, took sober counsel with herself on the subject. She knew how delicately but effectively she could exhibit Iris to Tim as she was, not as he saw her. The faintest accentuation of that coquettish appeal could not fail to make it ridiculous.

"But I shan't do it until I've proved—not just guessed or believed, but proved that Iris does not love Tim. One part of my mind says she does—how could she or any girl help it, darling Tim! The other reminds me coldly that when all is said and done, she did him the greatest possible injury last summer. And I don't think she's such a fool as she wants us—particularly Tim—to believe. She knows too much about men to have let that Latshaw deceive her. All that business of switching ore specimens on Tim—it sounds dis[illegible]phony to me. However, I'll wait to be sure!"

So Boulder was treated to the unusual sight of Buff Carroll and Iris DeMuth, Tim's erstwhile fiancée and his present friend and comrade, going everywhere together. Buff lunched at the Boulderado with Iris. Iris, with Tim and George—a George who exhibited an unexpected suavity toward the girl he disliked and distrusted—dined with Buff at her apartment. The quartet took in a weekly movie together. They drove, when the roads were clear of snow, up into one after another of the several canyons opening out of the University town.

Tea in Buff's living room became a daily function, with Iris, always lovely, always a trifle mysterious and remote, lying back in the chair which best framed her dark head while Buff presided over the table and the town's younger set came and went.

"No chance at all to see you alone these days," George grumbled. "I've been wanting to tell you that the land still stands in Iris's name. Whatever her game is she's going to play it slowly and cautiously this time. She needs to, in view of the rumpus that business kicked up here last summer."

"You're still convinced she's playing a game?" They were talking in undertones in the small dining room. Buff had slipped away to stick her head through the swinging door and ask Webby for more sandwiches. George had followed her and detained her in consultation.

Thrill Of Danger

"WHAT else?" he inquired simply. "It's not in her to love Tim or any other man. She might be devoted to [illegible] the sort of man Latshaw [illegible] [illegible] in a melodrama, Buff— That's hard to say. If I had had the sense in the beginning not to sail into her, that infernal chivalry of his wouldn't have been aroused. As it is he's looking for trouble every time I open my mouth about her. You two are queer," he mused aloud. "You and Tim, I mean. Neither one of you is happy unless you are protecting somebody. Tim's doing a knight-in-armor act for Iris; you're on guard for Tim's sake. I wish"—he finished plaintively—"somebody would yearn to look after me a while. Is it because I'm not tall and sort of gaunt looking like Tim? Or is it because his hair is so thick and curly? Why does no one long to rush to my defense?"

[illegible]

She patted his arm soothingly. "You belong to the League of Defense yourself, George dear! Who saw Tim through that bad time in August? Who came out to the ranch and fussed anxiously about his health, his mental state? You're worrying now, you just said so!"

He grinned sheepishly and Mrs. Webb appearing at that moment with a replenished sandwich plate, he took it from her and went about the living room, offering sustenance to Buff's guests.

The first part of Buff's problem was solved for her unexpectedly, and by Iris herself. It was a bitter day in February, with a wind that howled like an agonized soul about the campus, hard pellets of snow driven down from the high peaks making walking almost impossible. The two girls had lunched together in Buff's dining room and afterwards Iris had appropriated the softest chair and drawn it close to the fire. She had a cat's talent for making herself comfortable; also a cat's daintiness about her person, Buff thought, watching her touch her hair with deft fingers, smooth the folds of her wine-colored corduroy velvet, relax in just the position which best displayed the crossed slender ankles.

Rough Battle Expected As Sailor Meets Marvel

Polish Wrestler To Match Skill With Hill In Semifinal Tonight

A war on this side of the Atlantic ocean is likely to break out tonight when Sailor Watkins and the Masked Marvel lock horns at the Monroe Wrestling arena in the feature attraction of the evening.

The Marvel, who wears a hood in order to conceal his identity, is determined that he will always emerge the winner in mat contests in Monroe and, thereby, leave wrestling fans in the dark as to what he looks like. He came here wearing his mask, and he is determined to leave the same way. And if he displays the power and skill tonight that he showed in pinning Dick Sampson, Toledo, O., wrestler, last week, locals fans probably will have to wait to get a look under the mask.

Watkins, however, is confident he is the man to give wrestling addicts the treat of a look at an "Unmasked" Marvel. The Sailor, who wrestled his way to the championship of Uncle Sam's navy in his class, has a sound knowledge of wrestling, an ability to take plenty of punishment and a bag full of unfair tricks which he keeps well-oiled through constant use.

The exchange should be a match for any grappler who has appeared here if he chose to use only fair tactics, and with the added advantage of a complete set of unorthodox methods' he has proved himself the master of most men he has met in the local arena.

The Masked Marvel, who demonstrated powerful strength in defeating Sampson, apparently is well-instructed in roughhouse tactics and although he was given no chance to show [illegible] could stand rough grappling in his bout with Sam, [illegible] one of the cleanest matmen who has appeared here, he is expected to be able to hold his own in that field with Watkins.

It's a semifinal match that packs as much promise of good wrestling as the [illegible] Joe Ban[illegible] Polish [illegible] will meet Frankie Hill [illegible]

[illegible]

The matches [illegible] start at 8:30 o'clock at the arena [illegible] street. Al[illegible] B[illegible] Martin will act as referee.

TENNESSEE IN TOP PLACE IN PIGSKIN POLL

Defeat By Duquesne Drops Pitt From Lead To Eighteenth Place

By Bill Boni

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Tennessee's Volunteers, hailed by Jock Sutherland as "one of the most perfect football machines I ever have seen," Monday rode high, wide and handsome into first place in the Associated Press national ranking poll.

A week ago, in the first poll, the experts apparently were withholding final decision on Tennessee until its game with Alabama. But the Vols' 21-0 defeat of the Crimson Tide obviously furnished the clincher, for 83 of this week's 118 ballots gave first place to Tennessee, while the southern eleven was ranked second on 15 others, and third on eight more.

That gave the Vols, unbeaten in 17 straight games, a total of 1,077 points out of a possible 1,180 for one of the biggest landslides in the history of the poll. It also boosted them up from fifth place past Notre Dame, Oklahoma and Tulane while, at the same time, Pitt's 21-13 beating by Duquesne dropped the Panthers from the lead down into 18th place.

Sutherland told Monday's session of the Metropolitan Football Writers association that he didn't thing there was a team in the country that even could score on Tennessee, let alone beat them. If there is any team that could, the experts feel it would be Notre Dame for they kept the Irish, winners of four major games this season, in second place with 841 points.

The standing of the teams (points figured on basis of 10-9-8-7-6, etc., first-place votes in parenthesis):

Team	Points
Tennessee (63)	1,077
Notre Dame (12)	841
Michigan (6)	725
Ohio State ([illegible])	712
Texas A. and M. (6)	653
Oklahoma (2)	493
Cornell (1)	435
Southern California	319
Tulane (1)	241
Nebraska	160

Second ten: Duquesne 117, Duke 114, North Carolina 111, Mississippi 84, Oregon State 67, Pennsylvania 63, Southern Methodist 40, Pittsburgh 33, New York U. 25, Alabama 17.

Also-ran: U. C. L. A. 14, Louisiana State 13, Kentucky 12, Purdue and Oregon 11 each, Yale 8, Minnesota and Dartmouth 5 each, California 4, Carnegie Tech 3, Utah 2, St. Mary's, Texas Christian, Catholic U., Santa Clara and Gonzaga 1 each.

Pitt's fall was even more abrupt than Tennessee's rise. The Panthers wound up with only 33 points, and seven places behind their conquerors of last Saturday, Duquesne.

The poll substantiates the feeling that Ohio State-Cornell at Columbus should be this week's "big game" since it will bring together two of the select group.

Oklahoma, Southern California, Nebraksa and Tulane crash the first ten despite ties on their records. The Sooners play Oklahoma A. and M., Missouri Valley conference leaders, this week-end while the Trojans, idle last Saturday, meet California and Tulane meets Mississippi, unbeaten, untied and in 14th place.

STATE, ALABAMA TO RENEW OLD RIVALRY

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Oct. 24.—(AP)— An ancient gridiron rivalry of 43 years will be renewed at Tuscaloosa, Ala., Saturday when the Maroons of Mississippi State and Alabama's Crimson Tide clash for the twenty-sixth time since 1896. The two teams haven't met since 1936, Alabama winning that year by a 7-0 score.

State has won only 5 of the 25 games, Alabama capturing 18 victories and 2 ending in ties. The Maroons won three in a row back in 1912, '13, and '14, but since that time have been unable to upset the Tide except for their 20-7 win in 1935. Alabama's longest winning streak started in 1922 and ended with the Maroons' victory in 1935, a record of 9 straight wins.

Alabama, annually one of the nation's strongest teams, will be favored to whip the Maroons this week, but spectators will see a real thriller from the starting whistle to the final gun. Hundreds of State fans are expected to take advantage of Mississippi's new all-paved highway system to drive to the game.

TIDE SQUAD IS INTACT AFTER VOLUNTEER TILT

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 24.—(AP)— Alabama's football squad stepped right into preparation for Mississippi State Monday without any letup after the bruising clash with Tennessee last Saturday.

The squad was in good physical shape with only Tom Borders, reserve tackle, out of uniform with a cold. Bob Luck, guard, suffered a head and neck injury in practice Monday.

The Tidesmen looked over Mississippi State plays and ran signals.

HURTS TO KEEP FOUR INDIANS OUT OF GAME

Injuries May Force Three Backs, Tackle To Sidelines For Month

With four players missing from the Northeast Center of L. S. U. squad, Coach James L. Malone yesterday began planning for the game here Friday night between his Tribesmen and the Copiah-Lincoln Wolves of Wesson, Miss.

Coach Malone announced yesterday that Hal Hanson, big tackle, and "Preacher" Blackwell, Cercy Frey and Harry Morton, backs, would be definitely out this week and probably for a month.

Hanson underwent an operation yesterday for the removal of a blood clot from his right leg; Blackwell is nursing a minor leg fracture that is keeping him on crutches; Morton is also on crutches as the result of a fractured bone in his foot; an Frey was "racked up" with a shoulder fracture in the game last week.

The big tackle will be hard to lose, but Coach Malone still has a good supply of husky tackles in "Blondy" Evans, Roy Smith, Hal Larsen and Irvin "Ken" Zeidman.

In order to bolster the backfield strength, William Abraham, guard, has been moved to a fullback post. Abraham, 155-pounder, was an all-state fullback as a high school player in Oklahoma, but Coach Malone had chosen to use him as a guard because of his speed and the need of speedy guards in running interference for fast backs. However, Abraham is expected to prove more valuable in the backfield.

The Redskins took a long, hard drill yesterday, spending an hour and a half in offensive scrimmage, 30 minutes in tackling and blocking practice and two miles in laps around the track at Brown field.

The drills today will include 30 minutes scrimmage, 30 minutes dummy scrimmage against expected Copiah-Lincoln formations and plays, and pass defense work. The work against aerials will be to prepare a defense to spoil the highly touted passing combination of Pittman and Newman, back and end respectively, who have already accounted for over 100 points for the Wolves this year.

Coach Hitt was much pleased today with the work of Charles Pittman, blackfield ace, who connected with several long, bullet passes during scrimmage with "Big Slim" Newman, 200-pound end, catching most of them as usual.

Coach Hitt had little to say about the impending battle, but stated he would have "a good team on the field Friday and one of the fightingest teams ever to represent Copiah-Lincoln."

The Old Prof Holds His Weekly Wailing Session

Football Coaches Re-Hash Happenings On Saturday's Gridirons

By Whitney Martin

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The Old Professor hurried to the door to greet two tardy arrivals for his Monday morning class of football coaches.

Old Professor: Right this way, gentlemen. I have reserved front row seats for you. Class, we are honored today by the present of two esteemed citizens who got their ruddy cheeks from blowing up the first footballs. Let me introduce Mr. Stagg and Mr. Warner. Would you say a few words about your team's 13-3 victory over College of Pacific, Mr. Warner?

Pop Warner, San Jose State: Well, Professor, Pacific is the fastest team I've seen in years and, believe me, we were lucky to win. Mr. Stagg's team really is a credit to coast football—an excellently coached outfit.

Alonzo Stagg, College of Pacific: That Fullback Leroy Zimmerman has been a thorn in our side for three years now. We should have learned how to box him out. San Jose did far better against us than California. It is better than we are.

Old Professor: Thank you, gentlemen. Mr. Neyland, you seem quite pleased with yourself.

Bob Neyland, Tennessee: I'm very happy that we beat Alabama, Professor, but I don't think the score indicates the difference in the teams. It should have been about 7 to 0. Butler's run was a beauty.

Frank Thomas, Alabama: Yes, it was. He was just one of the too many guns Tennessee had for us. At that, I thought some of my boys played good defensive ball.

Old Professor: Mr. Bierman, I hear you had a crew of men out bright and early this morning sandpapering your goal posts. Just what is the idea?

Bernie Bierman, Minnesota: Well, Professor, if we'd left the last coat of paint off the cross bar, Mernik's field goal would have been good and tied up the game. Ohio State is good, but not the team Purdue is. Its backs are better than the line.

Francis Schmidt, Ohio State: That Minnesota is a great team, and will be plenty tough from now on. But every time I see a game something like that Langhurst business happens: a guy scoots 80 yards for a touchdown and there's some official back there waving a flag. It takes all the fun out of life.

Old Professor: Not all the fun, Mr. Schmidt. You won, didn't you? Mr. Dawson, you look like you expected someone to sneak up behind you.

Red Dawson, Tulane: Who wouldn't, after last Saturday. We got a 14-point lead in the second half after playing sorry football in the first, and then North Carolina came from behind to tie us. It has a fine team and a great passing attack.

Ray Wolf, North Carolina: That 225-pound Tulane line is composed of all-Americas, and Kellogg and Hays are among the best backs I've seen. I'm proud of the comeback my boys made.

Old Professor: Mr. Waldorf, what's the matter? Did you just discover something?

Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern: Yes, Professor, I've discovered it feels pretty good to score again. Our team is coming along. We got the breaks against Wisconsin.

Harry Stuhldreher, Wisconsin: Yes, the Wildcats capitalized on their breaks, and won. They looked good all around.

Old Professor: And Mr. Kirwan, what are you doing with that rabbit's foot?

Ab Kirwan, Kentucky: We need luck. We were lucky to beat a vastly improved Georgia team. It was 60 minutes of football rolled into about eight.

Wally Butts, Georgia: I guess the best team won, but we gave 'em a battle. Kentucky had a lot of poise.

Old Professor: Well, poise will be poise. We must have our little joke.

Gentlemen, the wailing room attendant is signaling that the crying towels have arrived. Good day, sirs.

TIGERS START WORK FOR VANDY BATTLE

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 24.—(AP)— Obviously well bruised after a comparatively close victory over Loyola Saturday night, Louisiana State's varsity squad Monday opened preparations for its next foe, Vanderbilt, with a light workout.

Calisthentics, lectures by the scouts on Vandy's strong points and then a light passing drill for ends and backs completed the session, which Coach Bernie Moore stretched out over two hours. Sprints for the entire squad finished off the workout.

Coach Moore said his squad was fast shaking off effects of the surprisingly tough Loyola game, which had been regarded as a "breather." Only doubtful starters for next Saturday's game in Nashville are Ralph Whitman, big left tackle who suffered a dislocated shoulder, and Young Bussey, star quarterback who is nursing a back injury. Other first-string players injured were believed recuperating well enough to be sure starters against Vandy.

LIONS WORK FOR TORNADO BATTLE

Haynesville Game Thursday Is First AA Contest For Ouachita

Despite warm summery weather, the Lions of Ouachita Parish High school went through a lengthy practice session yesterday as they point toward that all important game Thursday night with the Golden Tornado of Haynesville High school at Haynesville.

The Lions, probably inspired by the fact that they are at last on the verge of tackling a Class AA conference foe for the first time this season, turned in a good day's work and looked better in their drills than at any time this year.

Coach "Lefty" Haynes will continue to stress the importance of the battle this week, perfect the Lions' mode of attack and strengthen the defense as much as possible. The Ouachita force also expects to be at its full strength for the invasion.

Howard Griffith, who was missing from the lineup in the Vivian game, is back at tackle with "Sonny" Foreman as his running mate.

"The Three Bills," the vastly improved powers in the middle of the Lion line, are looking better each day, and Coach Haynes believes that if his charges can get past Haynesville they will be hard to beat the rest of the season. Bill Haynes and Bill Edgar, guards, and Bill Eason, center, although new to their positions at the beginning of the season, have not been through four hard battles and should be able to hold their own.

Mitchell Funderburk and Warren Seivers, veteran terminals, are holding their jobs in good style, but Dean Fields has developed to such an extent in the last three weeks that Seivers is being pushed closely for his position.

The backfield is the same combination that was formed for the Vivian game. Kimball did so well in the Vivian game and has worked so steadily in practice that "Cotton" Hall has been unable to get his place back with the ball-carriers. Bruce Gregg, Clayton Brown and James Hewitt are as dependable as ever.

TIGERS READY FOR BEARCATS

Homecoming Feature Of Tilt With Bearcats Here Thursday Night

While students and faculty are planning their most elaborate Homecoming, the Neville High school Tigers are drilling at full strength for the first time since the Greenville, Miss., invasion for the Ruston High school Bearcats who come here Thursday night for a Class A conference engagement with the Bengals.

Aside from the usual lengthy workout yesterday, the Tigers elected Guy Miller, a little 120-pound quarterback, as captain for the Ruston game, and named R. C. "Red" Rivers, hero of the 38-to-0 win over Winnsboro last week, alternate captain.

Plans for Homecoming include a bonfire, pep meetings and a parade in addition to a program that is being planned to take place during the game.

The bonfire is scheduled for tomorrow night behind the Neville school. Neville students have prepared a "Bearcat" which will be burned during the program, and Coach Percy Brown has remarked that he hoped "that cat stays burned until after we get through Thursday."

Alumni of Neville High school and the old Monroe City High school have been invited to attend a pep meeting to be held Thursday morning in the school auditorium. All former football players and cheerleaders are especially invited and will be presented to the assembly. Short talks will also be made by school officials and alumni.

The parade will take place Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and the football game, beginning at 8 p. m., will cap the day's festivities.

With his squad back at normal in regard to condition, Coach Brown said he would not put the Tigers through any exceptionally rough work this week, but stated the drills would be hard and long. Pass offense is being stressed with the thought of taking to the air should the Bearcats' defense on the ground prove too strong for the locals.

TALLULAH TROJANS PREP FOR WATERPROOF TIGERS

TALLULAH, La., Oct. 24.—(Special) —The Tallulah High school Trojans, fresh from a 25-to-0 triumph over Farmerville in the locals' first Class A conference game of the season last week-end, began preparations Monday for their clash Friday with the Waterproof High school Tigers, strong Class B eleven.

Waterproof teams have beaten Tallulah for the past four years but the Trojans are after revenge in a big way this year. With the squad in its best condition of the season, Tallulah expects to find the Tensas Tigers tough but conquerable.

The Trojan reserve strength has been looking much better and will be needed plenty before the season is over. The reserves looked particularly good in the Farmerville game with Harmon at end, Rodwig at center, Medlin and Lagardes at tackles and the Curry brothers at guards playing well in the line and Penton, Turney and Leoty doing commendable work in the backfield.

KAVANAUGH'S TOTAL SCORE SOARS TO 42

End Tallies Twice Against Loyola To Easily Top Southeast Loop

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Ken Kavanaugh, Louisiana State's sensational end, easily leads Southeastern conference individual scorers in Louisiana and Mississippi member schools after two touchdowns against Loyola Saturday which ran his point total to 42.

With the pair of scores, Kavanaugh had made seven consecutive L. S. U. touchdowns—four against Holy Cross, one against Rice and the two Saturday—for a record seldom, if ever, equalled by an end.

Harvey Johnson of Mississippi State crossed Southwestern's goal line once in his team's 37-0 victory and has a point total of 32. Frank Chambers, State's ace offensive back, was held on the sidelines because of injuries and four of his mates top him in point-getting. He also was unable to play against Howard, when State ran up another big score.

Bob Kellogg of Tulane scored both touchdowns and one extra point in the Greenies' 14-14 tie with North Carolina and leads his team with 21. Mississippi continued its habit of spreading the scores around—14 Ole Miss players have made a point or more and 13 have made touchdowns, and Willis Gladding, end, maintained his lead at 18 points, although he did not score against St. Louis U.

Records of the leaders on each team to date:

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Specialties put on a rallying flourish in today's stock market, along with steel, tire and aircraft issues, and an earlier hesitant list turned around and registered gains running to two or more points.

Dealings were sluggish at the start but near the fourth hour, activity broadened a bit.

While stimulation from European war fronts was lacking, traders found plenty of optimistic developments on the home business front. A number of stocks responded to boosted or extra dividends and bright earnings statements and commission houses were somewhat encouraged by the recent obvious lack of any real selling insistence.

Bonds were selectively better and commodities a shade uneven. The principal foreign markets did little either way.

Among stocks tilting forward were United States Gypsum, National Gypsum, Crown Cork, Crane Company, Johns-Manville, Philip Morris, Consolidated Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft, United States Rubber, General Tire, Santa Fe, Western Union, American Radiator, United States Steel, Bethlehem and Goodyear.

Backward during the greater part of the proceedings were General Motors, Chrysler, Texas Corporation, Westinghouse, Montgomery Ward and J. I. Case.

Favored on the curb were Hayden Chemical, Lockheed, Lake Shore and Standard Steel Spring. Majestic Radio weakened just before announcement the curb authorities had temporarily suspended the stock from trading in view of word the company was contemplating reorganization.

With the wage-hour law schedules going into effect today, there was considerable guessing in boardrooms as to just how certain lines would react.

A survey by the Standard Statistics company said there was not so much worry regarding the 30-cents-an-hour limit but that the hours limitation was more serious. The department of labor was quoted as estimating that [illegible] when production was more [illegible] at present there were 2,360,[illegible] employees subject to the law who were working more than 42 hours a week.

NASHVILLE IS USING GAS TO POISON RATS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Nashville is using poisonous gas to safeguard the health of its citizens, menaced by an incipient epidemic of typhus fever.

Thousands of rats, which medical authorities say are carriers of the disease, died in their burrows along sections of the city's railroad yards yesterday as city health department inspectors turned the lethal fumes upon them.

As the department intensified its efforts to eradicate the rats, believed to have been brought to the city on freight trains from rural sections farther south, two more cases of the fever were reported, bringing the total in the city to 38 since October 1.

SANDEL BERRY SEEKS OFFICE

Ward 8 Resident Is Candidate For Reelection On Police Jury

Sandel Berry, candidate for reelection for a third term on the Ouachita parish police jury from Ward 8, announced Tuesday that if reelected he will work faithfully to advance the best interests of his ward.

Ward 8 is essentially devoted to farming and Mr. Berry is a practical and successful farmer. For many years he has been an exponent of diversified farming, following the practice in his own operations. His holdings are devoted to the cultivation of fruits and vegetables besides the staples cotton and corn. He also raises hogs and maintains a herd of beef cattle.

Mr. Berry was born in Mount Vernon community and was educated in the parish schools. In 1918 he moved to Ward 8, taking up his present farm holdings. He was first elected to the police jury in 1928 and was reelected in 1936.

He has served as chairman of the parish [illegible] committee which [illegible] the current program of highway development throughout the parish. He has performed much constructive work, his friends assert, when viewing his record on the police jury and they assert that he deserves to be reelected to his present office.

SEVERAL DESERT GERMAN STEAME

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Several crew members of the German liner Columbus, which has been anchored in Mexico waters southeast of Veracruz since the outbreak of the European war, were reported today to have deserted because of conditions on board.

Foreign intelligence agents, who have been watching the ship, said food supplies were running low. The crew has been denied shore leave.

PROJECT COMPLETED

COLUMBIA, La., Oct. 24—(Special)—A WPA drainage program for malaria control in Caldwell parish, sponsored jointly by the Louisiana State Board of Health and the parish police jury, was completed here this week at a total cost of $10,500. WPA workmen drained swamps and ponds on Martin's lane to Bayou Lafourche, a distance of 14,000 feet, cleared five acres of land, moved 15,000 cubic yards of excavation and constructed a drainage channel 4,000 feet long.

Mahoney Steals Occupied Base In Little Chicago

Qualifies For Chief Of Police But Announces For Sheriff

[illegible] Mahoney was smoking like an automobile [illegible] from the used parts sold by the business of which he is the senior member, Mahoney and Son.

In the [illegible] manner of which he is the nation's greatest exponent, he soon had the situation that was threatening the standards of his slate completely under control. Thinking Mahoney was jitterbugging to the vocal [illegible] by Humble of some late musical hit he (Kokinos) was unacquainted with, he awarded each a prize for his respective effort—an ice cream cone with the compliments of Purity Ice Cream company (the business title under which the Kokinos family operates).

"How ice cream sootheth the soul," purred Humble.

"Thou speaketh most truthfully," Mahoney agreed.

Meantime the Little Chicago executive committee, at the request of the people of West Monroe had extended the deadline for the qualification of candidates until Thursday midnight. The original deadline set was Monday midnight.

It wasn't a case of being unable to find candidates in West Monroe. It was just the reverse. There being such a wealth of political talent in that half of the Twin Cities, the ward bosses were having difficulty in culling those willing (oh, so willing) to offer for office.

The Little Chicago election is scheduled for November 8. It will be preceded by a torchlight parade the night of November 7. Another entertainment feature will be a street carnival. It is scheduled for the week of November 6-11.

PAY-HOUR LAW ONE YEAR OLD

Celebrates Anniversary With New Chief And Injunction Suit

[illegible]

The maximum work week was narrowed at the same time from 44 to 42 hours for some 2,[illegible] workers who are not entitled to time and a half compensation for hours beyond that limit.

A court action which may test eventually the validity of the act was under way in New Orleans where three southern cotton textile manufacturers obtained from the circuit court of appeals a stay against the 32 1-2 cents an hour minimum wage put into effect by a special wage order. The rate applies only to 175,000 workers in the textile industry.

Chief Counsel George A. McNulty asserted that the stay order applied only to the three petitioning firms and declared the wage-hour administration would contest the action. The textile litigants contend that the order, based on an industry committee recommendation, was "arbitrarily fixed" and not supported by evidence.

As the successor to Elmer F. Andrews who guided the wage-hour act through its first year, Fleming assumed his new duties yesterday.

At his first press conference, he said he intended to maintain the reputation he had acquired for "fair dealing" with labor and industry.

"I'm not a crack-downer," he said. "I think you can achieve your ends in other ways. There comes a time when you might have to crack down. But you can sit down and talk to people across the table and achieve your ends without resort to drastic means."

Unless congress gives special permission, Fleming will do his administrative work through Acting Administrator Harold D. Jacobs. Army rules forbid active officers to take elective or appointive posts.

FLEMING EXPERT IN ART OF SAYING 'NO'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Lieutenant-Colonel Philip B. Fleming, the new wage-hour administrator, has a chapter in his personal history that may help in reading the labor law to employer and employe.

While he was on duty at West Point from 1926 to 1933, he held one of the nation's toughest unofficial diplomatic posts—graduate manager of athletics for the army.

Offhand, this might not sound like a hard job, but—everyone, it seems, wants a free seat for army football games.

Others merely want seats on the 50-yard line. Thousands want to see the army-navy game. All go to the G. M. A.

The "no" Fleming often gave out had to be a soft yet firm one.
